Chinese Sweep South

Charge Overwhelms
Finger Ridge, ROKs
Are Forced Back
By 6,000 Reds

BULLETIN

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The big Chinese offensive overwhelmed Finger Ridge, western anchor of the flaming 50-mile front in Eastern Korea, yesterday and rolled on south.

The weight of the drive, which had hurled back the South Koreans east of the Pukhan River, was shifted suddenly westward.

Nearly 6,000 Chinese Reds hit Finger Ridge, scene of bitter fighting last fall. The ridge was lost by noon.

Then the Chinese surged on south toward the Kyoan mountain complex.

SEOUL (AP)—Two fresh Chinese Communist regiments—about 5,600 men—slammed into Allied lines today on strategic Finger Ridge in a bloody pre-armistice drive toward Korea's 38th Parallel.

Syngman Rhee, 78-year-old President of South Korea, made a flying two-hour visit to the blazing East-Central Front to confer with his embattled Army commanders. He was accompanied by Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U. S. Eighth Army commander.

The Chinese charged Finger Ridge through a hail of artillery and small arms fire and blazing napalm and bombs from about 500 planes. The key height is the western anchor of a two-mile-deep bulge which more than 30,000 Reds South Koreans still cling to two-thirds of the ridge, which guards miles of Allied territory behind the main line.

Wearily ROK soldiers who bore the brunt of the mightiest Red offensive in two years dug into new positions on the Pukhan River. They were reported holding.

One American officer said the Chinese apparently were surprised at their two-mile gains and unable to exploit them immediately.

Assaults by as many as 3,000 Communists probed Allied lines as far east as Anchor Hill, near the coast, where more than 1,000 Reds in a bloody attempt to seize three heights from the ROKs.

AP Correspondent William Barnard reported from the Central Front that Communist mines caught an Allied tank force and the Reds then opened up with their big guns on tanks trying to escape.

Even four-engine B29s from Okinawa were diverted from their regular strategic bombing missions to participate in the day and night pounding of the Reds near the front.

Allied planes Monday ran up a new record for the war of 2,115 missions in a single day.

Red artillery and mortar fire in the 24 hours ending Monday evening hit a record pitch of 122,567 rounds, the Eighth Army reported.

Low-flying Communist planes bombed Seoul's outskirts about midnight Monday. One Red single-engine biplane was reported probably destroyed by a radar-guided Marine fighter bomber.

No damage from the raid was reported.

4.82 Inches Rain Due for Sedalia In Next 2 Weeks

We're due to get 4.82 inches of rain in the next 14 days.

For 25 years the average rainfall here in June measures 5.28 inches. Up to date in June this year we have received a total of .46 inches. So—we're due to get the remaining 4.82 inches sometime before the month is over.

Whether or not we will receive it remains a question. It we don't—it's sure going to be a dry June.

May wasn't much better, but there was more moisture then. That month had six rains that totaled 2.67 inches, but the falls were so scattered that the only rain that really counted was a combination of .36 on the 16th and 1.10 on the 17th. That later rain, by the way, was the last one we could call much more than a sprinkle.

June's "rains" have included .13 inch last Saturday night and .33 inch on June 6.

Last year in June the total rain was .76 inch while June of 1951 was a real "wetter." It had 14.95 inches of rain including that 7 inch affair in about nine hours that caused the flood that washed out the waterworks dam.

Vic Mason, at the State Fair Floral Co., keeps all the weather reports and records for the past years.

One Airline Ticket Costs Him $15,820

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexican Airlines figures one passenger from Chicago is going to need a special carrying case for the ticket he's bought for a trip through the Caribbean, Central and South America.

The airline said it had sold a ticket three yards long to William A. Miller, a former business promotion tour of 37 cities.

The ticket cost 137,000 pesos—$15,820.

One-Elbow Powered Motor Provides Plants With Drink

Lawrence Englund's tomato plants are not worrying about the dry weather. They have their own made-to-order water supply.

With a pitcher pump attached to an old cistern, and with the use of some guttering, Englund gives his plants a drink whenever they look thirsty. He has dug irrigation ditches down between the 40 plants and in no time at all his one-elbow powered "motor" fills the trenches and the thirsty earth drinks its fill to supply the plants with plenty of nourishment.

During the current heat wave it has been necessary to pump the water about three times a week.

Convicts Find Their Warden Is Tough Man

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP)—Convicts at New Mexico State Penitentiary thought Deputy Warden Ralph Tahash was too tough and so they rebelled yesterday, demanding his removal.

Tahash proved they were right. For 7½ hours he had been held with 13 guards in the prison hospital by some 25 convicts armed with meat cleavers and homemade knives. State police swarmed outside, reluctant to make a move that would bring harm to the hostages.

Gov. Edwin L. Mechem, who had arrived shortly after the early-morning outbreak, had arranged a conference with convict ringleaders, but before they could be held prisoners in Cell Block 2 seized seven more guards who were bringing them lunch.

Then everything happened at once.

One of the ringleaders in the hospital, Homer Lee Gossett, jerked a gas grenade from his pocket and tossed it at Tahash. He grabbed it and threw it back. The convicts retreated toward the rear of the hospital.

Tahash saw his chance. He rushed to the window and got a revolver and carbine from state police outside.

"I went into the room where the convicts were," he said later. "When the guard that was set was holding as hostage lunged away to one side, I shot Gossett in the throat. I think he was killed instantly. Then I shot the other man."

Simultaneously, the police troops were storming the hospital in force, and within minutes, Tahash said, "the convicts started coming out with their hands up."

A few minutes later police had also moved in on Cell Block 2 and it was all over.

The second ringleader shot by Tahash—Adolfo Benevides—was also killed.

Gov. Mechem said one guard had been hit on the head with a baseball bat, two had cuts, one was gassed and another stabbed in the shoulder. None was in serious condition.

One convict was slashed in the arm and another hit in the knee by a rubber bullet.

During the riot, the convicts said they wanted Tahash and six guards fired. They said Tahash, recently appointed deputy warden and ordered to strengthen discipline at the prison, was "too tough." They also complained of the food.

The death of Gossett, known as a "Houdini" among convicts, came in the prison he once termed a "hick prison" which couldn't "hold me."

He was notorious for slipping out of handcuffs and other restraining devices. He escaped the chair early this year when a jury recommended his second life term for the slaying of prison guard Filemon Ortiz.

Gossett was born in Plainview, Ark. He had records at prisons in Arkansas, Missouri, Tennessee and New Mexico. He once escaped from the Missouri State Prison.

When the riot first started, Guard J. C. Perez was grabbed by two convicts as guards were preparing to sweep the cells.

The convicts held a knife on Juan Griego, No. 1 cell house, Juan. As other guards came to take the count, they were taken hostage.

Says Actor Is Cruel

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Movie actor Tom Conway has been sued for divorce by Mrs. Lillian Eggers Conway, a former fashion model. She alleged cruelty in her complaint, filed yesterday.

Three Crewmen Credited With Saving Globemaster

TOKYO (AP)—An Air Force pilot today credited three daring members of the "best crew ever" with saving a giant C-124 Globemaster and all 24 aboard.

The Air Force released an account of how the crewmen battled poisonous fumes and flames which broke out Friday in one of the four engines of a Japan-to-Lima Globemaster piloted by Capt. Louis H. Bettinger, Liverpool, N. Y.

The big ship finally returned to its base and the Air Force temporarily grounded all Globemasters for maintenance checks.

A-1C George R. Kilpatrick, Lansing, Mich., was the first of three crewmen to inch his way through a narrow wing passageway. He removed the fire door to the smoke-filled engine compartment.

As Bettinger ordered the propeller of the flaming engine stopped,

CONTEST WINNERS—Winners in the first "Make It Yourself In Wool" contest ever held in Missouri are pictured above. Claribell Gallivan, 18, of Bolivar, right, in front, is winner of the contest in the senior division and Darlene Phillips, 16, Chula, left, is winner in the junior division. Both will go to Long Beach, Calif., in December, to compete in the nation contest. Standing left to right are: Elinor Van Dyke, Smithton; Amy Scott, Frisette; Carlene Patton, Kirksville; Marian Scott, Carthage; Marilyn Marsh, Atlanta; Delores Laffey, Chillicothe and Marian Courang, Ferguson. ## Claribell Gallivan, Darlene Phillips Win First 'Make It Yourself In Wool' Contest

Claribell Gallivan, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe V. Gallivan, Bolivar, won first place in the senior division of the first "Make It Yourself In Wool" contest ever held in Missouri, and Darlene Phillips, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Phillips, Chula, won first in the junior division. The winning of top honors entitles both girls to an all-expense trip to Long Beach, Calif., where they will compete in the national contest.

The contest, in which the woolen garments made by the girls were judged for every little detail and then modeled by the girls, was held Monday afternoon at the Bothwell Hotel. Later the girls modeled their clothes at the banquet held in the Ambassador Room of the hotel Monday night.

Claribell, who is a sophomore at the University of Missouri, modeled a black and white check suit, two-piece, with slim skirt and short jacket. With it she wore a black blouse and black accessories, with her only touch of color being a red rose on her purse. This young woman, whose brown hair has a tinge of red and whose eyes are a dark blue, has a great deal of poise and personality, which helped, in addition to her exquisitely made suit, to win her the trip to Long Beach. She has sewed for 11 years and was in 4-H work. She could hardly wait to tell her mother to tell her of the honor she had never expected to win.

Darlene, who is blonde and always smiling, won a scholarship to Missouri University, where she will go this fall as a freshman. She has major in home economics. She has been in 4-H work seven years but she started sewing before that. Almost as far back as she can remember, she has been sewing and she started on making tea towels for her mother. She was anxious to let her mother know what she had won, and her dad, too, because he had said: "At least come home with that $25 bond." Darlene's dress was a gray blue tweed, a tailored dress with a Spencer.

After the two top winners in the two divisions had been selected, the other girls competed for other awards. The Magnolia Room was filled with girls during the entire time, some a little tense, some bubbling with excitement.

The two winners were announced and then all of the other girls were called into the Ambassador Room again and judged.

The first place in this contest went to Carlene Patton, 15, of the junior division. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carter Patton, Kirksville, and has been sewing seven years, all seven years in 4-H work. Her two-piece blue wool suit won her a Singer sewing machine.

Any Ann Scott, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Scott, Kirksville, who joined with three Democrats yesterday in a minority report of the Senate Judiciary Committee criticizing the Bricker proposal, said he is ready for a vigorous fight against the amendment.

"This amendment is the most dangerous legislation that ever came before Congress," Wiley declared. "No other amendment has ever attempted to shift power from the executive to the legislative branch. This is an attempt to create a congressional oligarchy."

President Eisenhower has said the proposal would restrict in certain ways the authority the President must have if he is to conduct the foreign affairs of the nation effectively.

Wiley and Senators Kefauver, D-Tenn., and Hennings, D-Mo., and Kilgore, D-W.Va. said if the amendment were approved by a two-thirds vote of both houses and ratified by three-fourths of state legislatures "the President would no longer have control over foreign relations since the Congress could regulate his conduct of such affairs down to the last detail."

The conclusion of an armistice agreement in Korea would be virtually impossible in the absence of special congressional authority," arguing that each step in negotiations would have to be approved by the lawmakers in advance.

A majority report from the Senate Judiciary Committee denied that the amendment would interfere with treaty powers, contending that agreements could be made just as they are now with the exception that they would not supersede domestic law unless Congress approved.

The council approved the renewal of a package liquor license for Reno's, 219 West Main, and approved the moving of the Illinois Canning and Son from 210 South Ohio to 110 West Second.

Six interest coupons on the public sewer bonds and one interest coupon on the Park Improvement bonds, totalling $70 were destroyed.

City Will Seal-coat Roads, Defers Bids on Fire Truck

By D. Kelly Scruton

The City of Sedalia will do seven miles (more or less) of seal-coating this summer in accordance with an ordinance passed by the City Council, Monday night, which orders advertising for bids. The Council also deferred the asking for bids on a new fire truck until a later date but approved the purchase of a new truck for the sanitary department.

The Council also passed an ordinance restricting parking on Engineer on the west side of the street from Broadway south to the alley between Broadway and Ninth; voted final passage on an ordinance to purchase three lots on the Vermont Park for $1,000; and gave final passage on an ordinance to bring to the grade and construct curb and guttering on Sunset Drive from Fifth to Broadway.

Mayor Studer also presented several names to the Council for its approval for appointments. J. T. Thomas, 116 West Seventh, was confirmed as street foreman for the street and alley department.

He succeeds Dick Keenan, William Dalby was approved as operator of the disposal plant in southeast Sedalia, succeeding Luman R. Spry, who resigned; and the Council approved the appointments of William Phillips as a patrolman and Fred Carpenter as extra patrolman on the police department to fill two existing vacancies.

It was announced no bids had been received for bids had been received for District 94. Having asked for bids twice before, it was decided to delay a third advertising until a later date.

A traffic problem at Liberty Park and area was also disposed of with the ordering of an ordinance to establish a speed zone of 12-m.p.h. from the end of the pavement to Baker avenue on Liberty Park Boulevard. The order puts a 12 mile an hour speed limit on the roadways in the west portion of the park and in the Jennie Jaynes Lewis Recreational Area, and forbids parking on Liberty Park Boulevard on the north side of the roadway.

Councilman Carlton Kelley asked permission for his department to purchase gravel and chat to be used on streets before they're seal coated. The cost was estimated at $2,500.

Councilman Harry Moore asked that an ordinance be drawn restricting the amount of fireworks which can be stored in a business building. He also asked for bids on the fire truck to be deferred to a later date.

Councilman Arthur Schwarz, reporting on the Municipal Memorial Airport said an investigation had been made along with several local pilots, and work will start immediately to have the light tower placed, the field lighted and an effort to obtain an operator for the field.

Councilman Elmer Summers reported that in the past the various mayors and councils had done something to improve the city hall. "Now we have a proposition to bring up to improve the mayor's office where lots of people from over the country go. That is to have an air conditioning unit placed in it. We have three bids which I want to submit."

The Anderson Heating and Air Conditioning Co. was low bidder with $399.95 on a Servel unit. He also had another bid on another unit at $479.95. Both are one ton units. Blue Young bid $431.50 and the L and G Electric Co. bid $429.95 on a unit.

Councilman Aubrey Case called attention to three bids on a truck for the sanitation department. The Thompson-O'Connor Chevrolet Buick Co., was low bidder with $1,810 on a Chevrolet; the W. A. Smith Motors was next on a Ford at $1,819 and the Bryant Motor Co. $1,918.76 on a Dodge. The council accepted the low bid.

Case then said it would take about $100 to exchange the body of the garbage truck by the Parkhurst Manufacturing Co., and this was approved. He explained that to purchase a body for the old truck and a heavy duty hoist for the truck to be used in the department would cost $726.86. The expenditure was approved.

An ordinance for curb and guttering on Warren from the south building line on 18th to the north line on 20th was approved. An ordinance for curb and guttering on East Seventh from the east line of Emmett to the west line of Babcock was introduced.

The council approved the renewal of a package liquor license for Reno's, 219 West Main, and approved the moving of the Illinois Canning and Son from 210 South Ohio to 110 West Second.

Six interest coupons on the public sewer bonds and one interest coupon on the Park Improvement bonds, totalling $70 were destroyed.

A resolution on payment to police officers for off duty due to illness or injury, was passed. The resolution calls for the payment of a police officer one day each month or a total of not more than 12 days per year.

Officers Finish Drafting of Final Touches for Truce

Bricker Gets Taft Pledge On Treaties

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) said today he has a pledge of support from Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) for efforts to get early Senate action on a proposed constitutional amendment to limit treaty-making powers.

Taft, the Senate's majority leader, has reduced his activities because of a hip ailment, but expects to keep his hand in on the handling of major legislation.

"Bob Taft is for this proposed amendment strong and has told me he will help get it up for Senate action in this session," Bricker said in an interview.

Proponents say the amendment would prevent treaties from operating as legislation in the U. S. overriding domestic law, except with the approval of Congress. It also would provide congressional regulation of all executive agreements—those concluded by the President or his representatives without being submitted to the Senate as treaties.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), who joined with three Democrats yesterday in a minority report of the Senate Judiciary Committee criticizing the Bricker proposal, said he is ready for a vigorous fight against the amendment.

"This amendment is the most dangerous legislation that ever came before Congress," Wiley declared. "No other amendment has ever attempted to shift power from the executive to the legislative branch. This is an attempt to create a congressional oligarchy."

Truce Delegations Will Meet Wednesday; May Be Decisive Talk

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The main truce delegations will meet Wednesday at Panmunjom in what could be the decisive meeting prior to an armistice in Korea.

The U. N. Command said the meeting was scheduled for 11 a.m. at the request of the Allies.

The main delegations have been in recess since June 9, the day after they signed an agreement on prisoner repatriation.

Truce delegates will meet in secret session, the Allied command announced. The meeting Wednesday was arranged late Tuesday at a meeting of liaison officers at Panmunjom.

Revives Idea Of Broad Asia Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has revived speculation that the Eisenhower administration may seek a broad Far Eastern settlement with the Communists following a Korean armistice.

The administration, Dulles told his news conference yesterday, has not definitely confirmed the stand taken last year by United Nations negotiators that the political conference now scheduled to open 90 days after the prospective truce should confine itself to strictly Korean questions.

President Eisenhower, the secretary noted, said in his April 16 address to the American Society of Newspaper Editors that "any armistice in Korea that merely released aggressive armies to attack elsewhere would be a fraud."

Dulles told a questioner that conceivably the post-armistice conference might take up the question of the Communist-led Vietnam insurrection in Indochina.

Dulles did say that the primary purpose of the U. N. will be to assure the unification of Korea, as it has been over the past several years. He said South Korea will take part in the conference on the U. N. side and expressed belief that unification of Korea as well as Germany and Austria will come about, although he did not attempt to predict when.

That statement brought applause from congressional leaders, who, however, sounded a cautionary note against paying too high a price for an agreement with the Chinese Communists.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) of a Senate foreign relations Far Eastern subcommittee said he thinks Congress will stand firmly behind Dulles on a demand that Korea be united.

Smith added, in an interview, he fears it is going to be extremely difficult to get the Communists to agree on a free election to unify Korea without agreeing to give the Chinese Communist government the U. N. Security Council seat now occupied by the Nationalists.

Smith said, "That would be an impossible price for us to pay."

Eisenhower has been quoted as telling lawmakers this country not only will oppose U. N. admission for Peiping but will lead the fight against it.

Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.) said he and others who "have been watching the proceedings up to date," have "not much hope for a united Korea."

The immediate effect of Dulles' news conference statements was to reopen a matter which officials in close contact with Panmunjom negotiations had considered settled months ago. U. N. and Communist representatives agreed last year to the wording of Paragraph 60 of the armistice agreement, which said that the political conference should take up "withdrawal of troops, peaceful settlement of the Korean question, etc."

The U. N. representatives made clear at the time officials said that they considered "etc." meant all the questions concerning Korea, whether any proposal to broaden the agenda to include Far Eastern matters aside from Korea would complicate the truce negotiations at this late date.

Dulles went into the political conference plans in a discussion of the Korean situation. In the course of it he said the current Communist military offensive could turn into a very serious obstacle to a truce and cautioned that any letdown by the U. N. forces in the meantime might bring defeat and disaster.

Poland Has Offered Asylum for A-Spies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Communist Poland has offered to receive Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, condemned atomic spies, if the United States will lift their death sentences and let them go to Poland.

The Polish Embassy said today a note to this effect was presented yesterday to the U. S. Embassy in Warsaw.</

Scouts Saved From 5-Day Wandering

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. — A joyous reunion is expected to take place this morning between two Explorer Scouts rescued yesterday after a five-day ordeal in sun-baked Nakai Canyon in Southern Utah and their parents from Des Moines, Ia.

Stated to be reunited are Bud McIntire, 15, with Mr. and Mrs. K. H. McIntire, and Phil Crowley, 16, with Mr. and Mrs. James Crowley.

The boys spent the night at the hospital resting from their grueling experience of being lost in the canyon wilderness 30 miles from where they entered in last Wednesday in Arizona. Two Indians, John Fat and Neskie Yazzi, found the boys and brought them out by wagon. Then white men searchers took over and got them to clean beds and medical attention by jeep and plane.

The boys were pronounced in good health but tired and dirty. Their only complaint was "sore feet."

"We both had faith in our God," said McIntire at Kayenta, Ariz., as they both sat down to T-bone steaks at a trading post cafe. "Our scouting experience didn't do us much good in the canyon," he added.

Talking between bites, McIntire described the ordeal while Crowley concentrated on the groceries at hand.

"We separated that first night," he said, "but about an hour after sundown I spotted Phil a half-mile away. We went to sleep, each of us on another side of the canyon."

"We ran out of water the next morning but we found a spring. The water had bugs in it and was muddy but we drank a lot of it anyway."

"We figured it wasn't worth filling our canteens with. But by 11 o'clock we got thirsty and went back. After we drank, I washed my feet. When we filled our canteens we filtered the water through a handkerchief."

"We divided the final canteen later on and Phil went south. I was too tired to go very fast. I made up my mind to go north to the San Juan River."

"But both of us lost our directions the next morning and we walked into each other."

"The last meal we had was Wednesday—a half slice of pineapple and a chunk of candy bar apple. Saturday afternoon the old Indian found us." The "old Indian" was Yazzi. He is a Navajo cattleman who lives on a mesa above the canyon. He had been on their trail for two days.

Mature Tells the Difference Between Tricks, Real Acting

HOLLYWOOD — How do actors act? You read about everything else concerning actors except how they really do their work. This is a question I discussed with Victor Mature.

The large lad from Louisville, Ky., is the first to disclaim any acting prowess on his own part. "I'm no actor—and I've got the reviews to prove it," he says. But he's being modest. He proved with "Kiss of Death" that he was capable of some expert emoting. And when the new Cine-

May Postpone Action on Hike Of Postal Rates

WASHINGTON — Lack of time, plus political considerations, may put off until next year congressional action on a forthcoming administration request for a hike in postal rates.

The request by Postmaster General Summerfield is due to be made formally later this week.

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass.) said following a White House conference yesterday Summerfield probably will ask for an increase in all mail rates, effective Oct. 1, in a bid to wipe out a half-billion-dollar postal operating deficit.

It will be up to the House Post Office Committee to determine what should be done about it so far as the House is concerned, Martin told newsmen.

Chairman Rees (R-Kas.) of that committee said he was willing to consider the proposal but wouldn't say whether he was for or against it. He pointed out, however, that lengthy hearings probably would be necessary because of the complexity of the subject.

With congressional leaders aiming for adjournment by July 31, Rees said the committee would be hard-pressed for time if a comprehensive bill is to be considered this year.

5,000 Workers March Through East Berlin In Labor Protest

BERLIN — Five thousand East Berlin laborers paraded through the Soviet sector today carrying signs which demanded a lighter work day.

It was such a remarkable sight to see anyone demonstrating against a Communist government edict without being clapped into jail that thousands of passersby stopped and gawked. Communist police stood on the sidelines, smiling.

Obviously it was a planned rally, executed as part of the Communist regime's breast-beating campaign of de-Sovietization that is intended to make East Germany a more attractive partner for the West in the new unity drive. One of the sharp reversals in that drive is severe criticism of a past error of the regime for demanding more work at no more pay.

Senate Appears Certain to Okay Trade Extension

WASHINGTON — An administration-backed bill to extend the Reciprocal Trade Act headed today for quick action in the Senate after winning top-heavy 363-35 approval in the House.

Chairman Millikin (R-Colo.) of the Senate Finance Committee promised brief hearings and forecast little difficulty for the one-year extension.

But a close decision loomed in the Senate over a provision in the bill to increase the Tariff Commission from six to seven members. House Democrats late yesterday staged a bitter fight to knock out this provision but lost, 215 to 185.

GOP leaders in the Senate conceded the expansion proposal may be defeated there.

Democrats charged the proposal, in effect giving Republicans a 4-3 majority on the commission, was a "surrender" by the Eisenhower administration to advocates of higher tariffs to protect American industry from cheaper foreign imports.

And they said it amounted to a political packing of the traditional nonpartisan fact-finding agency.

The bill as passed by the House also would create a special 17-man commission to study trade and tariff problems and come up with recommended solutions.

And it would shorten from one year to nine months the time for the Tariff Commission to act on an American industry's request for higher tariffs to block out competing foreign goods.

Fair Weather Visits Most of Country, Few Storms Touch North

By The Associated Press
Stormy weather hit sections of the Dakotas and Minnesota and there were showers in other mid-continent areas but generally fair weather prevailed in other parts of the country today.

Thunderstorms occurred south of the storm center into Texas. Light rain fell during the night from Nashville, Tenn., to Central Indiana.

Relief from a week-long heat wave appeared on the way for the Central Great Plains as cooler air from the Pacific spread eastward from the Rockies into Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Northern Oklahoma. Hot weather continued in Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley.

Moderately cool weather continued in the Pacific Coast states and along the East Coast from New England to Georgia.

Missouri Synod Asked To Join Lutheran World Federation

HOUSTON — The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod has been petitioned to establish temporary relations with the Lutheran World Federation.

A petition from the Manhattan-Bronx-Westchester pastoral conference of the synod's Atlantic district has been placed before the convention's committee on inter-synodical and doctrinal matters.

The synod's 42nd triennial convention opens here tomorrow. Convention officials said today the question of affiliation with the world federation probably will be one of the major items to be discussed at the 11-day meeting.

At present, the synod, with nearly 2,000,000 members, is not affiliated with the federation but has received an invitation to accept membership.

A recommendation for action by the convention must come from the inter-synodical committee.

The petition from the Atlantic district asks that temporary relations be established while a special committee from the synod makes a study of the federation's objectives.

Should the Houston convention accept the suggestion, a vote on federation membership could be expected at the 1956 convention.

Baptists Begin Drive To Raise $34 Million For Mission Causes

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Baptists from 25 states began work here today on a drive to raise 34 million dollars for all state and Southern missions causes next year.

Church leaders from 25 states are on hand for major committee and board meetings. Today's agenda also included sessions of three historical groups and another by a special committee on total progress of theological education to look into financial problems of seminaries.

Tomorrow and Thursday the Executive Committee opens preliminary work on the convention's 1956 budget. The group will also name a new committee president to succeed Dr. J. W. Storer of Tulsa, Okla. He was made convention president last month.

Israeli Court Frees Communist Editor

JERUSALEM (Israeli Sector) — The editor of the Communist newspaper Kol Haam was acquitted by a Jerusalem court today of charges of defaming U. S. Secretary of State Dulles prior to his recent visit here.

Kol Haam published a series of articles before Dulles' arrival under the heading "Get to Know Mr. Dulles."

The attorney general brought the case against the paper for defamation of a representative of a friendly power.

Highway Dept. Calls for Bids On Road Work

The State Highway Commission today issued its first bid call for the second fiscal year of Missouri's 10-year highway modernization and expansion program. Bids are requested for July 2 on 89.6 miles of improvements estimated to cost about $4,500,000.

Supplementary roads provide the greater portion of the mileage with 69.3 miles being in that system and estimated to cost about $900,000 while 20.3 miles are a part of the major system and are expected to cost about $3,600,000.

One of the major system projects covers the grading, bridging and paving of the connections on each end of the Missouri River bridge at Jefferson City. The south part will connect with West McCarty Street and includes grade separations at West High and West Main streets. The other section (in Callaway County) will connect the north end of the new bridge with the MK&T overhead on U.S. Route 54 north of Jefferson City.

Projects in the Sedalia area include the following:
Benton County: Route D — 0.3 mile grading, surfacing and a 165-foot concrete deck girder bridge over Turkey Creek, southeast of Dell.

Henry County: Route AA—3.6 miles grading, surfacing and a double concrete box culvert over Dumping Creek. From Route 35, 3.5 miles east of Clinton, south.

Three Cities Have Special Elections On Bonds, Limits

KANSAS CITY — Voters in three Missouri cities will go to the polls today in special elections.

Moberly will decide whether to issue $570,000 in revenue bonds for construction of two new disposal plants. The old ones were built in 1927 and 1928.

Another bond issue will be voted on at Bushy. Citizens there will make a second try on a $65,000 bond issue for a swimming pool. The bonds carried last April, but the state auditor refused to register the bonds on the ground there was insufficient published notice on the election.

Nevada residents will decide whether to extend the city limits by taking land to the north and south. The annexation would total about 350 acres.

Miss Koechner Becomes Bride In St. Louis

Miss Georgia Anne Koechner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Koechner, Tipton, and Mr. Donald Eugene Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Coleman, Kansas City, exchanged marriage vows at 10 o'clock in the morning, May 23, at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church in Kansas City. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert Martin.

Mrs. Florence Clohesy played the organ and accompanied Mrs. Helen Mount, who sang "Ave Marie." "On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother" and "Panis Angelicus." A miniature bridal bouquet was presented to the bride by the Blessed Virgin Mary while Mrs. Mount sang "Mother, at Your Feet I Am Kneeling."

Mr. Koechner gave his daughter in marriage. The bride chose a white gown of imported embroidered organza over satin and nylon tulle, styled with a long fitted bodice and hoop skirt. Her circular veil of illusion cascaded from a bonnet which featured inlays of embroidered organza design. She carried a crescent bouquet of daisies and stephanotis.

Miss Cleo Meyers was the maid of honor. She wore a waltz length gown of antique yellow silk styled with fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of cornflowers and daisies and wore a matching arrangement in her hair.

Mr. James Guilfoil was the best man and ushers were Mrs. Charles Hick and Mr. Richard Hume.

Mrs. Koechner chose a gown of navy crepe with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was white carnations. Mrs. Coleman was attired in a powder blue suit with navy accessories complimented with a corsage of pink carnations.

The afternoon reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, 3238 Park. Reception assistants were Betty Wilson, Lucille Dorsch and Anna Marie Mapes.

For traveling the bride chose a tailored dress of rose cotton with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of cornflowers.

After a trip to St. Louis the couple will be at home at 4333 Main, Kansas City.

Monitau Co. Gets School District Plan

TIPTON—The Monitau County board of education has received approval of the third plan for reorganization of school districts for the county. In a meeting held June 9, the county board decided to hold an election on Tuesday, July 14, in the proposed Tipton enlarged district at which time the voters in that area will decide either for or against the proposed district. The board selected the Tipton, Fortuna and Syracuse school houses as polling places for this election.

Only the people living in this proposed district will vote at this election, since the districts of California, Clarksburg, Jamestown, Latham and High Point were submitted in the plan with no changes proposed. The existing districts of Tipton No. 35, Willow Fork No. 3, Hickory Grove No. 55, Fortuna No. 58, and West View, No. 60, lying mostly or wholly in Monitau County and Centennial No. 12 in Morgan County, comprise the proposed Reorganized District No. 6.

The county board has scheduled a mass meeting at the Fortuna school house on June 23, with the present Tipton board and the county board members as a panel to explain the proposed district to the patrons of the area and to answer questions concerning it. The public is invited to attend this meeting.

If this proposed district is approved by the voters, Monitau County will be completely reorganized into six enlarged districts and no common school districts will remain. There were 47 school districts in the county as recent as 1951 and at one time there were 84 whole or fractional districts.

City Council

On request of the Bothwell Hospital Board the City Council will seal coat the driveway around nurses' home and parking space just east of the building.

George W. Simmons, 1217 West Main, was given permission to enter the manhole sewer with a lateral from his residence.

Councilman John Carroll asked an ordinance to be drawn establishing a sewer district from Monticau to Missouri between Henry and Johnson streets.

Councilman Dr. Ira White presented the recommendations of the Missouri Public Service Co. for extra lights in Housel, Vermont and Center Parks. The recommendation was accepted.

Councilman Case presented a petition for the extension of a sewer line from 18th to 20th on Warren.

Councilman Summers reported he had several problems: The alley between Sixth and Seventh near Montgomery was in bad shape and notified the street and alley department to take care of the situation; re-seal concrete 11th from Vermont to Monticau as the property owners had improved the street; seal coat Sneed from 16th to 20th; reported a complaint that residents on East 13th had complained a neighbor's water hydrant was giving them trouble.

Chester Wolfe, city councillor, said the last problem was a private matter.

A traffic control light is to be established at 16th and Grand on recommendation of Councilman Carlton Kelley and Councilman Aubrey Case. An ordinance was ordered drawn for the light.

Councilman Kelley recommended a committee be established to investigate the need of a fire station in southwest Sedalia, the effect it would have on property rates, and the advisability of such a fire station.

He recommended the committee be composed of the fire and water committee of the City Council, the fire chief and three citizen members. The recommendation was placed in the form of a motion and passed.

Mayor Studer remarked he heartily agreed with the recommendation and felt there is a need for a fire station in that section of the city. He then appointed the fire and water committee, Fire Chief John G. Lueck, and himself, with the citizen members being Claude Boul, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Nolan Bricken and Robert E. Mullins, insurance men.

Councilman Woodrow Garrison brought up the stop sign on the southwest corner of Third and Park, suggesting the street be properly marked so motorists approaching from the west would see there is a stop sign at that intersection. The street department was ordered to paint a stop sign on the street.

Garrison then requested Jack Irwin of Linn Creek, failed to appear before the street is sealed.

Councilor Wolfe reported to the council of a conference with Glenn Watson regarding the Sedalia City Bus schedules. A six-week period was requested before a final decision is made regarding the night service. Mr. Watson, he reported has cancelled the Sunday service, but does not want to discontinue the night service, but try and work out an hourly schedule. The request was granted.

Harry W. Welch, president of the park board, requested Liberty Park Boulevard be widened. The mayor reported to him the action taken earlier on the meeting regarding the traffic problem on that street.

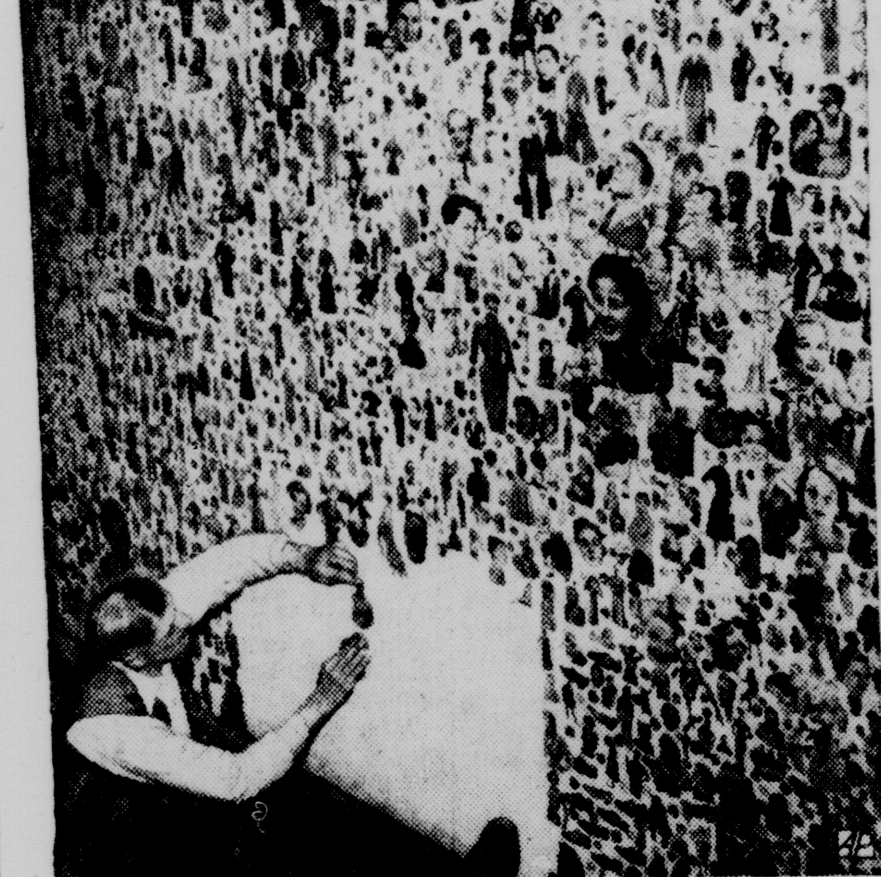

Jud Garrison, 1110 West Seventh, stated he was interested in the bidding on the fire trucks and that he desired to have an opportunity to make a bid. Garrison reported he was representing the General Manufacturing Co.

Tom Ferguson, representative of the Seagraves Fire Apparatus Manufacturing Co., which sold two of the newer trucks to Sedalia, was present and spoke briefly on his equipment.

Ira Cason, 404 West Johnson, appeared before the council in behalf of the request for the new sewer district, stating, "We would appreciate, very much, action on this district."

Red Newsmen Say Push Will Teach ROKs a Lesson

PANMUNJOM — Two Communist newsmen said today the vicious Communist attacks that have bulged the Allied line in the East-Central Front would "teach the ROKs a lesson."

Alan Winnington of the London Daily Worker and Wilfred Burchett, Australian-born correspondent for the Paris L'Humanite, said the Communists "didn't like at all those 'go north' shouts in the streets of Seoul."

The two, while not Red spokesmen, frequently reflect the thinking of top Communist officials here.

The two newsmen, veterans of the truce talks on the Red side, told Allied correspondents the last-minute attacks "are not murderous."

They said, "The U. N. side has always said the Communists would never sign a truce unless the greatest military pressure was exerted and the Communists were in dire military straits. This may change their minds."

The statement indicated that the two newsmen believed the armistice will be signed and that the attacks are mainly just to save face and spunk the rambunctious ROKs.

Both Red newsmen said the talks among staff officers ironing out final truce details are "going smoothly."

Wool Contest Winners

(Continued from Page One) Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Scott, Fristoe, was second with a bright red wool dress which suited her brunette beauty. It was cut low with a round neckline. Amy Ann was in the senior division and was the winner in the Clinton district, of which Mrs. George Fichter was director. She has been sewing eight years and will enter the University of Missouri next fall to major in home economics. She received a course in drafting pants at the National Sewing School in St. Louis.

Elmer Van Dyke, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Dyke, Smithton, was third, winning a length of fabric from Botany Mills, Inc. A student at Smith-Cotton High School in Sedalia, Elmer also was from the Clinton district. A brunette, she was attractive in the cinnamon brown, one-piece dress with which she wore a beige hat with trimming the shade of her dress.

Marilyn Marsh, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Marsh, Atlanta, really did well. She not only won the fourth award of a $25 bond given by the Sheep Breeders, Columbia, but she also won the $25 given by Welek's, Inc., St. Louis, for the best garment made of fabric at Welek's. Marilyn was graduated this year from La-Planta High School and has been sewing since she was nine years old. That was when she made her first dress at her grandmother's, cut it out herself and sewed up the hem. Her grandmother was outside. The garment with which she won fourth place was a gray wool suit.

Marian Scott was fifth. She is 14 years old and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Scott, Carthage. She started with doll clothes and then, eight years ago, took up sewing in 4-H work. A junior in high school, she won a $25 bond from the Sheep Breeders, Columbia, with a navy blue crepe, one-piece dress.

Delores Laffey, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Laffey, Chillicothe, received a One Weyer "Sag-n-more" worsted wool jersey fabric length, for sixth place. She has completed her first year at Trenton Junior College, has been sewing seven years in 4-H and won with a one-piece green dress.

Marian Couranz, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Couranz, who live on a farm near Ferguson, won seventh, a handwoven skirt length by Chamberlins Handweavers. She is a junior in Ferguson High School and had one year of home economics at school. She has been in 4-H work four years. She loves to sew, much rather than the pie tomatoes, which she should have to do if she wasn't sewing. She wore a full maroon skirt with bolero-type jacket.

Others in the contest were: Mary Ann Feezor, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Feezor, Farmington. She will enter Southern Missouri State College this fall. She wore a suit of gold wool.

Shirley Holley, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Holley, Avery. She is a graduate of the spring of the Warsaw High School. Her dress was a one-piece gold wool.

Louella Beck of Corridon, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beck and a senior in Ellington High School. Her suit was of gray and white stripes.

Carol Sue Richmond, 19, daughter of Mr. Carl Richmond, Advance, a junior at the University of Missouri. Her suit was of navy worsted.

Joyce Oberhelman, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Oberhelman, Wellington. She is a junior in Lexington High School and wore a deep lavender check, two-piece dress.

Norma Homfeld, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Homfeld of Lexington, is a senior at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg. She was the only girl who made a coat for the contest. The coat was gray.

Linda Lee Buch, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irbie Burch, Matthews, a sophomore in Matthews High School, wore a one-piece blue green dress.

Mary Ann Freezor, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Freezor, Farmington, will attend Southern Missouri State College this fall. Her suit was gold.

Mrs. V. B. Vandiver, Leonard, was state contest director.

The girls all have had a wonderful time in Sedalia, so they said, and it was fun modeling their wool garments because the rooms in which they modeled were air conditioned.

Tuesday morning they were taken for a tour of the Missouri State Fair Grounds on the shuttle buses.

Demos Feel Sure They'll Win Farmers

WASHINGTON — Democrats appeared confident today they had a potent farm bill issue for their 1954 battle to recapture Congress in a Senate vote against hiking soil conservation payments to farmers.

The vote came yesterday before the Senate passed and sent to conference with House a $1,200,000,000 bill carrying funds for past and future farm aid programs.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) led a fight to boost to 225 million dollars the authorization for payments in 1954 to farmers who follow approved soil conservation practices. The House had voted 195 million.

Union Orders New Contract, Tie-up Seen

NEW YORK (AP)—A union policy of "no contract, no work" went into effect today for East and Gulf Coast shippers, confronting them with the prospect of a gradual maritime tie-up.

The CIO National Maritime Union (NMU), seeking a wage increase, was sticking to its traditional position against working ships without a contract, despite a federal mediator's request for a postponement of a stoppage.

Bargaining sessions between the NMU and passenger and dry cargo shippers broke off shortly before last midnight, when old contracts covering some 40,000 NMU seamen expired.

Federal mediators stepped in and early today asked the union to "maintain the working status quo" at least until a new negotiation session scheduled for 3 p. m. (EST). The mediators' plea cited "the pressing national interest."

However, NMU President Joseph Curran later told newsmen he had taken no action on the conciliators' request. Curran added:

"Our men don't have to be told what to do. If the contract expires, and we don't tell them that a contract has been signed, they won't sign on—I don't think."

Curran insisted that any work stoppage would not constitute a strike, but would be a matter of "no contract, no work."

Negotiations here on contracts covering coastwise tankers were held separately and continued past the midnight expiration time, but these talks also broke down when Curran, at about 3 a. m. walked out of the meeting and said the tanker representatives were treating the sessions "as a joke."

A company spokesman later said he expects talks to resume about 4 p. m.

Union spokesmen said separate contract talks for ocean and Great Lakes colliers have been going on in Boston and Chicago.

What effect a tieup would have was not immediately clear. Maritime work stoppages normally develop slowly, with NMU seamen walking off their ships as they reach port.

An NMU spokesman said the disputes involved 31 passenger ships, 420 freighters, 239 ocean going tankers, 25 colliers, 10 to 15 Great Lakes tankers and some river craft operating out of St. Louis and Pittsburgh.

The union said defense shipments would not be affected.

The passenger-dry cargo talks brought NMU delegates together with negotiators for 39 steamship lines. They set a pattern for about 30 more lines.

In the other talks NMU officials are meeting with representatives of about 25 tanker and collier firms.

In both negotiations, the main points in dispute include NMU demands for higher base wages and overtime pay rates and for a boost in the number of crewmen with ratings hired through NMU hiring halls. The length of the new contract is also in question.

Curran said the union first asked for a pay increase of 5 to 7 per cent, depending upon a seaman's rating, with lesser ratings getting nothing, and then offered the alternative of a scaled boost of 2 to 6 per cent for all ratings. He said the companies turned down these demands and refused a request for arbitration on money clauses.

Walter E. Maloney, chairman of the passenger-dry cargo committee, said last night the operators had made no offer and did not expect to. He said seamen had had greater increases the past two years than employees in other industries.

Able-bodied seamen now earn base pay of $302.32 monthly with an hourly overtime rate of $1.87.

Yugoslavians Have Fun With McCarthy Helpers

AP Newsfeatures

BELGRADE—Yugoslavians found a laugh in the recent visit here by two agents of Sen. McCarthy's permanent investigating committee to look into the activities of the United States Information Service.

The satirical, humorous newspaper "Jez" splashed over three columns a cartoon depicting the two young investigators, one sitting on an office desk, the other with his legs on it, both wearing broad-brimmed hats.

As "Jez" portrayed it, they were cross-examining a bespectacled worried-looking state department employee. Their interpretations of the conversation:

Husbands Sign Compromise, End Week-Long Strike

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Everybody's happy out on 42nd Street North today. The embattled males, yesterday signed a compromise agreement with their wives to end a week-long strike of the husbands.

Under the agreement, the husbands will continue turning in their paychecks over to their wives. In return, the wives agreed to ease off on demands that their mates do some of the household chores.

Mayor James V. Morgan hailed the settlement as the "salvation of the very foundation of Birmingham—its home."

Jim Caldwell, 53-year-old railroad conductor, had spearheaded the strike. He started picketing the street, bearing a sign which stated that the wives were unfair to husbands. Twenty-five other husbands in the area gleefully joined in.

They demanded that their wives quit forcing husbands to cut the lawn on hot days, paint the porch and spank the baby.

The wives refused to get up and cook breakfast.

The compromise permits the men to wait for the cool of the evening before mowing the lawn. It also allows the males to go fishing as often as they want to. The wives may go along if they keep quiet.

Rosenberg Attorneys Continue Struggle To Save Spies' Lives

WASHINGTON (AP)—Julius and Ethel Rosenberg's attorneys carried back to the state Supreme Court Building today their dramatic fight to save the lives of the convicted atom spies.

They lost three separate moves in the court yesterday and then, finally, won permission to present to Justice Douglas today new arguments in favor of a stay of the execution set for Thursday night.

Not until they have exhausted every legal effort, the attorneys said, will they present a new plea for mercy to President Eisenhower, who rejected one such appeal last Feb. 11.

John F. Finerty, one of the Rosenbergs' attorneys, interrupted the court's last regular meeting of this term yesterday with an emotional plea in sharp contrast to the cold legal phrases with which the court had just refused, for the fourth time, to review the case.

Splitting 5-4, the court declined to act and, by the same division, refused to issue a stay of execution.

Eight Survive Crash Of Costa Rica Plane Among Mountains

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—At least eight persons, including a 9-month-old baby, reportedly survived the crash of a Costa Rican airliner in the San Ramon Mountains north of here last night. Twelve passengers and three crewmen were aboard.

Radio reports from San Isidro, 16 miles from the wreck site, said one of the surviving passengers was Fred Harding, 35, a native of the U. S., who suffered a leg injury.

The U. S. Embassy said Harding was born in Pearsall, Tex., and later lived in Yucca Valley, Calif. He now owns farm property near San Isidro.

Pilot Claims Polish Air Force Might Revolt

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—A young Polish pilot who fled to the West said today the Polish Air Force is "fed up and disgusted with its Soviet commanders" and might revolt if pressed into a war.

Lt. Zdzislaw Jazwinski, who escaped to the Danish island of Bornholm May 20 during a two-plane patrol flight, told a news conference all Polish air divisions and most regiments are headed by Russian officers.

No one dares express an opinion openly, he said, "but they are fed up and disgusted with the Soviet commanders and with conditions in Poland."

Jazwinski, 22, fled less than three months after another Polish MIG15 pilot, Lt. Franciszek Jarecki, escaped and landed on the same Danish island.

"I had planned to leave even before he did," Jazwinski said. "All the same I was glad to hear of it and knew I'd have a friend in the West waiting for me."

He said he was certain that if Russia and the West went to war the Polish Air Force "would not fight very well" if at all.

"It is possible that if war came there would be no Communist ideological convictions on the part of any Polish patriots. They would become Polish patriots and as such would either revolt or would not fight well for the Russians."

The Russians conduct their usual endless round of political lectures, he continued, and stress that the West wants war, is filled with warmongers and that the Soviet Union alone wants only peace.

"They tell us that conditions in the West and in America are miserable," he said, "with people going hungry and Negroes afraid to walk the streets for fear they will be beaten up."

Secretary of the Interior Relied on a Ghost Writer to Write Columnist

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay, a genial gentleman who as governor of Oregon enjoyed cowboy hats and rodeos, has written me a letter taking issue with a recent column which revealed his plans to turn Bonneville dam power over to the private utilities.

Actually I haven't received the letter, but I feel sure the Secretary of the Interior must have written it, because I have seen the letter published in the newspapers. I guess he forgot to mail the letter or maybe, due to the economy drive, he decided to save the three cents.

Anyway he released it to the newspapers, so I guess it's all right for me to answer it the same way. I'd like to save three cents too. Careful investigation convinces me that although the Secretary of the Interior signed the letter, he did not actually write it. I am convinced of this by two things. First, I am sure if Secretary McKay himself had written it he would have been more accurate. Second, my sleuths in the Interior Department advise that the letter was written in Washington on the night of June 8 while McKay himself was flying to Portland, Ore.

It was written by Undersecretary Ralph Tudor and his staff who stayed up part of the night drafting it. Secretary McKay had not read my column at that time, so he couldn't have commented on it, though he was shown an ad-vanee copy when his plane reached Denver about 2 a. m.

Later that morning, when he got to Portland, the copy of "this" letter to me was waiting for him, having been sent by telegram by Undersecretary Tudor. Secretary McKay and his aide, Larry Smith, then rushed it off to the press in time for the afternoon papers.

That's fast work, and the secretary is to be complimented on smart public relations.

"Nuts" To Tom Stokes

Secretary McKay's letter was a very nice one, and I'm always glad to get letters from cabinet officers even when I have to read them in the newspapers. I wish, however, that he'd been equally courteous to my colleague, Tom Stokes. Arriving in Portland the same morning he wrote me, the Secretary of the Interior, said of Tom, "that fellow is nuts."

Now Tom Stokes is not "nuts." He happens to be one of the most respected members of the Washington newspaper corps and does not deserve any abuse. I'm used to being called names. On the other hand, I've been called more names than any other newsman in Washington, have got used to it, and I don't like to see my laurels captured by someone else.

However, to get back to Secretary McKay's letter. A few days ago when testifying before the House Ways and Means Committee, Secretary McKay pulled a wrong one about the tariff commission. When Congressman Eberharter of Pennsylvania caught him, McKay, whose frankness is one of his assets, said: "I didn't write this, as you well know."

Likewise there are some wrong ones in McKay's letter to me which I'm sure he didn't write. And I must confess one wrong one by me, which I did write.

The Secretary challenged my statement that the House appropriations committee "knocked out" the law of 1906 passed under Teddy Roosevelt by which public groups such as cities and cooperatives get preference in buying power from government dams. Technically he is right and I am wrong. The committee didn't "knock out" the law. It just nullified it. It adopted the simple expedient of voting no money to transmit power to cities, cooperatives, etc., which certainly "knocks out" the effect of the law. I am glad to correct that error.

Who Prepared Contract

One important thing in Secretary McKay's letter, which he repeats three times, is that he didn't prepare the proposed contract whereby the private utilities take over Bonneville power.

"Bonneville administrator Paul Raver did not receive a copy of this new contract from Washington," the Tudor letter wrote for Secretary McKay repeated. "The contracts were originated in the administrator's office at Portland, Ore. Copies were sent to Washington."

Secretary McKay is partly wrong about this. And since he attaches so much importance to the point, let's examine the facts. The fact is that during the week of March 23, James Polhemus, head of Portland General Electric, conferred in Washington with Secretary McKay and other officials. Following this, Polhemus wrote a letter, dated March 26, in which he virtually dictated the main points of the contract by which the private utilities wanted to take over Bonneville power.

One important point in the letter was that no more Bonneville power was to be sold to private industry until the utilities' requirements had been met. This was also embodied in the final draft of the contract.

Further talks were held in Washington, and at Secretary McKay's direction, talks were continued in Portland. He not only knew about the talks, but was sympathetic to them, and directed that they be held. The talks began on March 30, with Puget Sound Light and Power, Pacific Power and Light, Mountain States Power, as well as Portland General Electric, attending.

Utilities Write Contract

Then, on April 6, the meeting was enlarged to include California Oregon Co., California-Pacific Utilities, Montana Power, and Washington Water Power. Idaho Power and the only major north-west company not attending. At this meeting further progress was made in outlining a contract, and on April 8 Bonneville Administrator Raver sent a schedule of these negotiations to Assistant Secretary of the Interior Aandahl, together with a copy of Polhemus' letter of March 26.

There's Been Hot Time In This Town for 69 Years

SMOKE DRIFTS SKYWARD in the fields of New Straitsville, O., the town that's been on fire since 'way back in 1884.

By WADE JONES
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW STRAITSVILLE, O. — Somebody set fire to this place 69 years ago, and they haven't got it put out yet.

It was back in 1884, during a bitter strike in the local coal mines, that some of the dissident parties decided to set the mines on fire. They got a string of loaded coal cars, soaked the coal in oil, lit a match, and sent the whole works roaring and flaming downgrade into the heart of the mine a mile under the hills.

The results were spectacular. The flames are still burning in what has come to be known as the biggest underground mine fire in the world.

Where there's fire, there's smoke. You can see it eddying skyward from all sorts of unlikely places — from under a hillside fern, from a creek bank, through the floorboards of a junked automobile.

Although the coal lies about 30 feet under the town proper the fires have produced some strange effects in New Straitsville.

The water in some cisterns has become so hot that housewives wash clothes in it as it comes from the wells. To drink the water, it must be artificially cooled.

In spots grass and plants grow in tropical business amid the winter snowdrifts.

When the underground flames got too close to the school house, classes were dismissed while nearby coal veins were scooped out and safety walls sunk as protection.

Some houses have caved in when the coal under and the earth collapsed. Back in 1935 one Sebastian Spicer, his team, and his wagon sank from sight in one of the deep fissures.

From time to time, the flames still spurt 50 feet high out of the mine. In times past as many as 100,000 eight-footers a year have come to New Straitsville.

While this reporter stood back at a safe distance, Paul Hatem, a local miner and volunteer fireman, set fire to a piece of cardboard by laying it on the ground. This was a very eerie business.

The only sign of fire was the smoke seeping up out of the ground and the bushes waving from the eddies of hot air. No visible flames. Yet the cardboard was burning briskly 15 seconds after it was laid on the ground.

W. J. Brown, who runs a barber shop here and who used to work in the mines, says the reason the fires can't be put out is that they keep getting fresh air from cave-ins and new diggings.

It has been estimated that more than $60,000,000 worth of coal has been destroyed by fire so far. In the late 1920s the federal government sent hundreds of WPA workers beating through the local bushes in a $1,500,000 project to put out the fires.

They did some good, Brown says, by sinking shafts and filling them with mud and water to isolate the burning areas. But they never did get all the fires out and they are still burning in about 50 different places.

Just the other day the highway about a mile out of town caved in because of fire underneath and you can see the new asphalt where they repaired it.

Oil was discovered in New Straitsville in 1909 and for a time thereafter, what with coal and oil, the town was booming with a population of 3500.

But the oil began to peter out several years ago, the coal veins were mostly worked out or burned out, and New Straitsville succumbed to the doldrums. Now there are only about 1100 people, and whole rows of dirty windowed business buildings on the main street have rent signs up. But with all this underrating of the fabulous days that were, there's a wistful note. The town's automobile tags still bear the proud words, "World's Greatest Underground Mine Fire."

THE STORY: Pete Morrison, a scout, and Nate Wilkinson, a rancher, have left the wagon train which Nate Wilkinson is leading to California, to find Betty, Nate's daughter, kidnapped years before. Both men think she may be the girl that had been at the massacre of Two Rivers, calls his daughter, about remains at a ranch where Pete first met the girl, while Pete rides on to Two Rivers to find her present whereabouts.

TWO Rivers looked the same as when Pete Morrison saw it the first time. The gambling game was going on in the shade of the store. The same white men and the same Indians, even Tobey, were loafing about.

Pete went into the store and found Barnes behind the counter. "Well," Zad said, "you're back in a hurry. Didn't you find your wagon train?"

"Yes, I met it. They're on the way, but traveling slow." "You didn't?" "I always like to make time. I came by High Valley. Had dinner there."

"You seem to like that place?" "I do. I suppose I can quarter here till my friends arrive?" "I reckon so. The same room you had is empty. Sally will get anything you want."

"Thanks." Pete couldn't afford to be too eager about seeing Betty. He pretended to be extra solicitous about his horse, and killed time taking care of him before going to his room. The Indian gambling game the door tried to think things outasked. "Do you speak Shoshoni?"

The World Today— Ike Tries Military Economy

(Editor's Note: This is the first of four stories discussing the Eisenhower administration's new approach to the defense problem—and the Air Force revolt against the cutback in its budget.)

By DON WHITEHEAD
(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower and his civilian defense chiefs are moving toward a new relationship between economy and spending for the military security of the nation. And the goal is greater economy.

This move has stirred up a brawling dispute, particularly over a five billion dollar cutback in Air Force funds which critics say will weaken the nation against atomic attack by Russia.

But despite the critics, the administration is pushing ahead with a new approach to the defense problem which appears to be guided by these convictions:

1. That Russia is not ready for war and therefore there is time for a critical review of military goals fixed by the Truman administration.

2. That security means not only military strength but also a sound economy that includes a balanced budget.

The administration has tossed into discard a deal of the thinking that guided the military buildup during the Truman administration. Secretary of Defense Wilson—who has Eisenhower's support—has even refused to accept as final estimates made by the present Joint Chiefs of Staff on what the size and composition of the U. S. armed forces should be to give this country future security.

He has told senators the new Joint Chiefs soon to take office, and the National Security Council, will review U. S. military needs and strategy and this study will provide the basis for future decisions on military strength.

The Air Force argument underscores administration rejection of the thesis that this country must gear its military buildup toward a "crisis year." This is a turnaround from the planning of the past two years.

The Truman administration had set mid-1955 as the crisis point in free world defense planning. This was the date on which it was estimated Russia would have stockpiled enough atomic bombs for war.

There seems no doubt Secretary Wilson and others around him view the danger of attack by Russia with less alarm than the nation has become accustomed to—or else they are willing to take a longer risk in the interest of a sounder economy.

Wilson has declared that from the information given to him the Russian Air Force is mainly a defensive force with a bomber arm that does not match American bomber power.

He told senators the Russian Air Force "is much more a defensive Air Force and not an offensive Air Force—that ought to give the American people some encouragement."

Sen. Hill (D-Ala) wanted to know if Wilson had meant that U. S. also had more of a defensive Air Force than an offensive force. The secretary replied: "Oh, no. We are the people who are building the bombers."

The implication in Wilson's reply seemed to be the Russians have more to fear from our Air Force than we have to fear from Russian air power, a viewpoint not often voiced in these parts.

Last month, Deputy Secretary of Defense Roger M. Kyes said Soviet Russia "needs oil, raw materials, transportation and fabricating facilities before it is in a position to assume risk of sustained war."

Ministers Plead For Horse Race Track Defeat

FORREST CITY, Ark. — All-night prayer meetings in four churches ended here at 7 a. m. today as ministers made a final appeal to the 6,097 voters in St. Francis County to defeat an East Arkansas horse race track proposal at the polls.

Anti-race track forces, however, did not leave the whole job of winning a special election on the track to the power of prayer.

They added practical politics—such as babysitters for voters, cars to haul voters to the polls, and a telephone campaign to get out the vote.

Today's election is the result of a five-month campaign by the St. Francis Valley Turf Association, which seeks to build the track.

The Rev. T. K. Rucker, pastor of Forrest City's First Baptist Church, where one all-night prayer meeting was held, said he believed the anti-race track forces would defeat the issue by a big margin.

He said the anti-race track forces would have checks at the polls today to see that every voter in the county casts a ballot. He said that if a voter doesn't show up to vote, the anti-race track forces will bring him to the polls.

Both sides have waged an intensive campaign by radio and newspaper advertisements and in-house canvasses.

Legally, the Arkansas Racing Commission is not bound by the dictates of the county electorate and can either issue or deny a franchise for a track.

Truce Fever Grips Munsan, Work Rushed

MUNSAN (AP) — Truce fever gripped this advance U. N. base today and work was rushed on preparations for exchanging nearly 100,000 prisoners of war soon after an armistice is signed.

Allied officers conferred behind closed doors following Washington reports that most Americans liberated from Communist prison camps will return home by ship.

Near here, Freedom Village got a late spring cleaning as workmen started sprucing up the tent town to accommodate returned prisoners of war as it did during the exchange of sick and wounded in April.

But the 45th Army Surgical Hospital Unit next to Freedom Village began pulling up stakes for a move to a new location several miles away. This hospital unit is not expected to be as busy as it was during the first exchange when only sick and wounded captives were traded.

Allied officers who conferred for an hour and a half at Munsan on exchange preparations were tight-lipped about their discussion.

In Washington, it was disclosed that the Allies will put most Americans returned in the big trade on ships at Korean ports and take them directly to the U. S. The POW probably will be brought to Munsan, processed, put on trains here and taken by rail to Inchon, port city for Seoul. There they will board ships for the voyage home.

Sick and wounded released in this exchange probably will get preliminary medical treatment at Munsan, fly in helicopters to Seoul for further treatment and then be taken in large transport aircraft to Tokyo hospitals. Then they will fly from Japan direct to the U. S.

Freedom Village will be able to handle 800 to 1,000 men a day if the Communists release them that fast.

Diplomats Give Way To Heat In India, Wear Sport Shirts

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Diplomats in India's sweltering capital appear to be bowing to the heat—at least until dinner time. Officially, it's okay to wear tieless sport shirts by day and light suits for cocktails.

The new regime was advised in a circular to the diplomatic corps from its senior member, Egyptian Ambassador Ismail Kamel Bey. He reported today that the "logic of it seems to be bringing them all around," but stressed that "it's not obligatory."

"If any wants to be formal, they'll just be out of step," he added.

Diplomats here customarily have worn neckties throughout the day and dinner jackets at cocktail parties, despite New Delhi's 110-degree mid-summer temperatures.

Korean Envoy Says US Can't Prevent RO's From Fighting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ambassador Youn Chuan Yang of Korea, a bitter critic of the proposed armistice terms, says he does not see how U. N. forces could stop his country's Army from continuing the fight despite a truce.

Such action, he said last night in an MBS radio interview, would put the Americans and their allies on the side of the Communists.

But he added he could "guarantee you that our Army will never fight any of the United Nations forces."

Yang said he had no official word of any move to remove him from his post because of his outspoken criticism of the proposed terms.

Yoshida Pledges Help In Restoring Peace Throughout Asia

TOKYO (AP)—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida today pledged Japan's co-operation in rehabilitating Korea and restoring peace throughout Asia if a truce comes.

In an outline of government policy at the opening of the 16th special session of Parliament, Yoshida also said Japan hopes to promote trade with Southeast Asia, on the assumption it can't expect much trade with Communist China.

He said Japan will help the countries of Southeast Asia with capital, technical assistance and services.

Japanese taxes will be reduced 102 billion yen (more than 283 million dollars) in the next fiscal year, he said.

Foreign Minister Katsuo Okazaki told the Diet Japan will strengthen ties with the free nations of the West.

Clucas Is Ready To Be Examined By Sen. McCarthy

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Lowell M. Clucas, information officer at the U. S. consulate general here, said today he is ready to testify before Sen. Joseph McCarthy's investigations subcommittee in Washington.

Clucas' name was mentioned yesterday in a Senate Appropriations Committee hearing and McCarthy instructed an aide to have him brought to Washington for a "public hearing" before the subcommittee.

"I am at the committee's disposal," Clucas said when informed of this.

McCarthy criticized Dr. James B. Conant, U. S. high commissioner in Germany, at yesterday's hearing for his defense of Clucas and Theodore Kagan.

Kagan recently resigned as deputy public affairs director of the High Commission following his appearance before the McCarthy subcommittee.

McCarthy did not voice any detailed charge against Clucas but said he was "a twin to Kagan."

On this, Clucas commented: "I can hardly describe that as a charge."

Rotary Slugs Out 4th Victory; Erik Hurlers Get a No-Hitter

Miller Gets Second 4-Bagger to Lead League in Homers

Rotary "power-housed" its way to another victory in the National division of the Little League Monday night, overcoming Kiwanis 14 to 5, to remain the only undefeated team in the National. In the second game the Elks broke the three-way tie for second place and took over the runner-up spot after by besting the Jaycees 8 to 1 with a no-hit victory.

Horrick started for Rotary and took the win although he was relieved in the fourth by Burford after Kiwanis had pounced on him in the third for all five of their runs.

Heavy hitting again made up the Rotary attack. Miller pounded out his second homer of the season for the winners to lead the Nationals in 4-baggers and to tie Cramer of the Americans. Miller also had a double.

Other extra base hits for Rotary included a triple by Holde-mann and doubles by Nichols, Her- rick and Rouchka. There were 14 hits all told by the victors for Rotary. Farris was the losing pitcher.

Rotary scored 4 in the top of the first, added one in the second, 7 in the third and 2 in the fifth.

Gates and Noland combined to hurl a no-hitter for the Elks. Gates tossing up a shut-out for three frames and then letting Noland take over to continue the no-hitter, although one run crossed the plate against him on a combination of walks and errors.

Eight of the 9 outs in Noland's three innings were strike-outs. He was in hot water because of his wildness, but he wasn't wild at the plate, getting three for three including a long double that scored three runs.

Scoring 3 in the last of the first, the Elks were never behind. They added one in the third and 4 in the fourth and had a 7-0 lead until the one Jaycee center came in the top of the fifth.

Sports Roundup--

Runaway Leads Put Organized Baseball In Serious Trouble

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (P)—In the wake of the Yankees' sacking and pillaging of the last remaining Indian settlement on Lake Erie, columnist Ed McAuley of the Cleveland News says in sepulchral tones:

"Organized baseball is in trouble. Its ailments will be aggravated seriously if the four-time winners continue to make a joke of the flag race."

Truer words were seldom spoken. If the American League thinks it has a headache in its various television problems, just wait until Stengel's runaways increase their lead to 18 or 20 games along in August.

Who, for instance, beyond a few homeless knotholes from the Bronx would be interested in watching the big team win its 19th straight tonight at the expense of the St. Louis Browns, losers of 14 in a row? It could get worse than that, though not much.

As McAuley goes on to say, no body wishes the Yankees to let the task of balancing the league belongs to the clubs behind them, not to the conquering leaders," he sighs. But in the following paragraph, Ed concedes there is no prospect of relief soon:

"Dogsled, patiently—and no doubt expensively—the clubs which trail the Yankees will have to duplicate their operation, not only on the field but in the front office. So far only one owner, Tom Yawkey of Boston, has shown the ability and the disposition to match check-books with the champions."

Coming from Cleveland, where the suffering must be intense, these remarks are unusually tolerant and well timed. They are not the cry of the wounded, but simply a statement of fact—that the American League has a mess on its hands. The Yankees are much too good for their opposition, and at least a half-dozen local fans who make an occasional visit to Yankee Stadium have told me in recent days they are through for this year, at least. They don't blame the Yank players for whooping it up and going for that $5,000 up.

The task of balancing the league belongs to the clubs behind them, not to the conquering lead-

Stengel Says He'll Shoot For 26 Streak

NEW YORK (P)—The old "per-fesser" smiled a dry smile and winked a sly wink today before sending his hatchmen out on the polished turf of Yankee Stadium and rasped:

"I'm sure gonna shoot for 26 if we can win the next two. Don't forget I was around when the Giants did it."

The "per-fesser" was Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Yankees, who are in the process of making a force of the American League race. He was talking about the all-time major league record of 26 straight victories by the 1916 New York Giants.

Going into tonight's game against the sad, sad St. Louis Browns, who have a record of their own (14 straight defeats), the Yanks had won 18 in a row.

"Suppose we do and it turns out to be a jinx," Stengel asked. "You know the Giants didn't win that season. We did. I was with the Brooklyn Dodgers that year."

Maybe Case has forgotten, but the Giants wound up fourth that year even though they put together a rather winning skein of 17 straight.

Well, if ever a team had a good chance to break an all-time record, the Yanks have. If they sweep the seventh place Browns and the hapless and hopeless Detroit Tigers, they'll tie it. That would be Sunday. They rest Monday and take on the Chicago White Sox Tuesday. They've won 16 of 21 games at home.

Jim McDonald probably will get the call against the Browns, but if he falters there's always the Super Chief, Allie Reynolds.

"And let me tell you something about Reynolds," rasped Case. "I guess everyone on the club does, but the Chief was the big guy. You know all about how he saved seven of the last 14 games, but he gave the team more—the big lift. The players just do better when they see him. It's psychology, that's what it is."

Although Reynolds repeatedly has said he does not want to stay on relief forever, Casey is going to keep him there until the streak ends.

The sight of Reynolds coming out of that bullpen and into a game is remarkable," he said. "My men seem to puff out their chests as if they know they can't lose with him coming in. And the other club seems to sag in spirit as if they know it's no use."

Fisherman Saves Life Of Drowning Friend With Skillful Cast

HINTON, W. Va. (P)—James Ellis Thomas is alive today because of a friend's skill with a fishing rod and reel.

The 56-year-old Thomas and Hugh Garrett were fishing from a platform below the Bluestone Dam. Thomas slipped and fell 20 feet into a weir, an area staked out for fishing.

The swift current swept him up against baffle posts where he was battered back and forth.

Garrett started casting with his fly rod. He hooked Thomas' clothing and reeled his limp body ashore.

Garrett then began administering artificial respiration. Thomas revived. He's in the hospital with a fractured left leg, bruises and cuts.

Trading Closes For All Major League Clubs

NEW YORK (P)—Starting today, the major league clubs will have to do with what they have until Sept. 1 when the stretch drive gets under way except for waiver deals.

There were few trades of importance before the deadline at midnight last night, but if any team was strengthened to any extent it was the Cleveland Indians, who bartered four of their operatives for four Detroit Tigers.

Art Houtteman, Joe Ginsberg, Owen Friend and Bill Wright all went to the Indians, while Ray Boone, Steve Gromek, Al Aber and Dick Weik of the Tigers.

This is bound to help the Indians, although it comes in the form of a closing the barn door when the cow has disappeared. The cow in this case is the New York Yankees, who are 10½ games ahead of the Indians.

Gromek and Boone probably will help the Tigers, but they certainly are not the answer to getting the Bengals out of last place.

All told, 20 players changed major league uniforms in the past four days.

The Chicago White Sox should be stronger with the acquisition of double-play Virgil Trucks and Bob Elliott from the St. Louis Browns, to whom they dealt Lou Kretlow and Darrell Johnson.

The St. Louis Cardinals will be strengthened by the addition of Sal Yvars from the Giants. They were in need of a high class second-string catcher to spell workhorse Del Rice. The Giants, who could use almost anything, took cash for Yvars.

The Redbirds also will present a better infield since they got Peze Gastigione from the Pittsburgh Pirates. He'll be used in a utility role.

Favorites Remain In Women's Golf After High Scores

ATLANTA (P)—Despite a general skyrocketing of qualifying scores, all the favorites were still around today to start match play for the 24th Women's Western Open Golf crown.

Professionals Louise Suggs of Atlanta and Jackie Pung of Glasgow, Ky., and amateur Claire Doran of Cleveland, O., tied for medal honors yesterday with four-over-par 73s.

Miss Suggs drew as her first match play opponent Bebe Smith, a young Columbus, Ga., amateur who qualified with an 85. Mrs. Pung, the Honolulu housewife who turned pro after her National Amateur victory last year, was paired against amateur Helen Hampton of Chattanooga, who also had an 85.

Miss Doran's opponent was Georgia State champion Mary Crawford of Americus, who shot another 85.

Match play runs through Saturday, when the finalists go 36 holes.

Browns Face Mighty Yanks In NY Tonight

By BEN PHLEGAR AP Sportswriter

They lead the lambs to slaughter at Yankee Stadium tonight.

The pore ole St. Louis Browns, who can't rightly remember when they last enjoyed prosperity in the victory column, come smack up against the powerful New York Yankees, winners of 18 straight.

One more victory and the Yankees will tie the American League winning-streak record which their 1947 club shares with the 1906 Chicago White Sox.

The Browns, who haven't won a game in two weeks, are well on their way to a few records of their own. They've dropped 14 straight, an all-time mark for St. Louis clubs, and are within six games of the American and major league losing record.

Just to make the record prospects even brighter for the Yankees, who already have made a 100-game lead, the Browns will stick around for three more games after tonight. Then Detroit, the only team with a better record than St. Louis, comes in for a four-game set.

Over in the National League, where they're doing their best to generate enough pennant excitement to cover both circuits, the Milwaukee Braves went home today a half game behind first-place Brooklyn. They came East two weeks ago in the same spot.

The Braves lost a tough one last night, 3-2, to Pittsburgh in 10 innings. Relief pitcher Lew Burdette forced in the winning run when he hit Danny O'Connell with the bases loaded and one out.

The Giants salvaged the finale of a four-game stand with the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2. Jim Hearn allowed six hits in going the distance against his former mates for the first time since he was sold to the Giants on waivers during the 1950 season.

The two National League games were the only ones played yesterday.

Pittsburgh took a two-run lead in the third inning when Frank Thomas doubled with the bases loaded. Milwaukee came back to square matters in the fourth on a walk, a pair of singles and an error after two were out.

Bob Friend, who hadn't won a game since April 21, went all the way for the Pirates.

The Giants' winning run came in the seventh when New York Lockman singled home Wes Westrum, who had walked and moved to second on a sacrifice. Joe Presko was the loser.

Versailles Softball Church League To Play Friday Nights

Versailles Softball Church League has gotten underway with four teams from the Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian and Christian churches (the latter two have a combined team) and a colored team known as the Brown Bombers. The league games are to be played on Friday nights.

To finance the program free-will offerings will be asked at the games to defray the expenses of the playground activity.

Efforts are being made to have the summer band concerts held in conjunction with the games.

Swim won the Big Seven championship last month with a cast of 199-10½, and his throw of 201-6½ in a May dual against Drake ranks him twelfth among the nation's college spearman. ## Sportsmen Boot 11-5 Contest With Basito

The Sedalia Sportsmen tangled with the wrong team Sunday afternoon and came away with a 14-5 loss.

They played Basito there and were behind from the start, after pitcher Dave Miller, with two out in the second inning, gave-up four hits good for four runs.

The Sportsmen scored three runs in the third inning, but Basito went wild the fifth for eight runs, and the race was over.

The Sportsmen made two more runs in the sixth, but so did Basito. Hayden was the winning pitcher.

Basito's 14 runs were made on 13 hits, while the Sportsmen scored five on 12. The Sportsmen established something of a record with their eight errors, making a total of 25 in three games.

They play Marshall at Liberty Park at 8 p. m. Wednesday.

Parker Is Hoping Long Sleep Aids Chance for Medal

KANSAS CITY (P)—Bill Parker was hoping today that a good solid eight hours of sleep wouldn't spoil his chances of winning the medal in the Trans-Mississippi Golf Association's golden jubilee tournament.

The rugged 19-year-old Parker, runner-up in the National Caddie Tournament two years ago, had a one-stroke edge on the field of about 200 shooters engaged in the second and final round of qualifying play today.

Parker spent Sunday night driving here from Tulsa, Okla. He got to the Kansas City Country Club's 6,502-yard course just in time to answer the tee call. Dog tired, he responded with a one-under-par-69. That was the best 18 hole effort except for defending champion Charles Coe's practice round of 68.

Coe, Oklahoma City, a former National Amateur champion, passed up a chance for another Trans-Miss medal since he qualifies automatically.

Parker is an invited guest to the Trans-Mississippi 50th tournament. He was invited last year and went to the quarter-finals. On two weeks ago he was runner-up in the Oklahoma State Amateur meet.

Sixty-three of the 200 entries—plus Coe—were to qualify for the championship flight today. Match play begins tomorrow with the championships coming up Sunday.

Parker had at least a dozen shooters hot on his heels for the medal. Closest were Don January, of North Texas State College and Dallas, and Gene Littler, San Diego Navy star from La Jolla, California, both in with first round par 70s.

Five players posted first round 71s. They were Kansas City's Dick Sloan and Bill Hornbuckle; Walter Emery, Tulsa; Dee Replege, Oklahoma City, and Harold Shipman, of Henderson, Tex.

Well down the list and not exactly in a good position to qualify, was band leader Phil Harris, of Palm Springs, Calif., who had a fat 13-over-par 83 yesterday.

Turner, Saxton Emerge Unscathed in 10-Round Bout at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (P)—Boxing has reached the point where damage to a fighter's future sometimes is of more concern than damage to the anatomy. On that score Gil Turner and Johnny Saxton both emerged unscathed last night although Turner put the finish to friend Johnny's unbeaten status.

Turner won a split 10-round decision in a fast and furious fight at Connie Mack Stadium. The action-packed bout was a thriller from start to finish and the crowd of 14,676 went home satisfied it had got its $70,925 worth.

St. Joseph Keeps Three Game Lead In Western Race

By The Associated Press

St. Joseph kept its three-game lead in the Western Association today after racking up an 8-0 shut-out last night over Joplin.

Cardinal hurler Roger Fister limited the Miners to four hits to win his sixth game of the season. He has two losses on his record.

St. Joseph batters opened the scoring with two runs in the fourth, added two more in the sixth and three more in the seventh. The final tally came in the eighth on a triple by Rolie Rice, centerfielder.

Topeka edged Ft. Smith, Van Buren 9-8 despite a four-run surge by the Twins in the ninth inning. The Owls marked up eight runs in a big fourth inning and added their one-run marginal tally in the bottom of the seventh.

The triumph kept the Owls in second place within batting range of the leading Cardinals.

Hutchinson handed Muskogee its sixth straight loss by scoring four runs in the final two innings.

Cards Lose Out After Tying Giants Twice

Former Redbird Jim Hearn gave up just six hits to stop a five-game St. Louis Cardinal winning streak as the New York Giants posted a 3-2 victory yesterday afternoon at the Polo Grounds.

The Cards tied the count twice but couldn't push into a lead. A single, by Whitey Lockman with Wes Westrum on second in the seventh produced the winning run for the New Yorkers.

Hearn helped his own cause with a fifth-inning triple, the only extra base blow of the Giant's nine hits. A long fly by Alvin Dark brought Hearn home.

Solly Hemus homered in the fifth with the sacks empty and Stan Musial scored from third on a slow roller by Peanuts Lowrey in the sixth for the St. Louis runs.

Four other times the St. Louisans had men on base but couldn't produce. It was the Giants' only victory in the four-game series.

The Cardinals open at Busch Stadium against the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight.

The Browns, idle yesterday, test their 14-game losing streak against the New York Yankees' 18-game winning streak at Yankee Stadium tonight.

Senator Calls Ike's Speech Pitiful Thing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.) today labeled as "a pitiful thing" President Eisenhower's speech advising a college graduating class not to "join the book burners."

"He showed no knowledge of his subject," McCarran told newsmen. "It's too bad a man in his position doesn't know more about it. Someone must have sold him a bill of goods."

McCarran is a member of the Senate internal security subcommittee which has been searching for Communist influences in schools and colleges.

The President, in a commencement talk Sunday at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N. H., told graduates not to be "afraid to go to the library and read every book," and he asked: "How will we defeat communism, unless we know what it is?"

The President said even those with whom we disagree have a right to set down their views and "to have them in places where they are accessible to others." If these rights are questioned, Eisenhower said, "it is not America."

It was generally assumed that the President may have had in mind the demand by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), acceded to by the State Department, that books by known Communists and fellow travelers be removed from overseas information libraries which the department operates.

McCarran, while he had no direct comment, raised a number of questions about "book burning" yesterday in questioning Dr. James B. Conant, U. S. high commissioner for Germany, at a Senate Appropriations Committee budget hearing.

Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.) said in a separate interview today it was "noteworthy that there are two things the President definitely did not say." Mundt is a member of McCarthy's Senate investigations committee, which has been looking into the overseas library program.

"He did not say that he felt it was a justifiable expenditure of taxpayers' money to put Communist books in tax-supported high schools, institutions of higher learning or on the shelves of our information libraries overseas," Mundt said.

"He did not say that he felt Communists should be permitted to teach American children in tax-supported high schools or higher institutions of learning."

"What he appeared to refer to was a belief that there should be no governmental censorship which would prevent Americans from reading whatever volumes they desire to purchase for their own book shelves, or for the libraries of privately supported institutions of learning."

Dr. Conant, who was president of Harvard University until the

Time May Be the Great Gift Of Impending Korean Truce

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—A truce is not often a happy settlement of a problem—whether it be a school-boy feud, a marital argument, or a war in Korea.

But, since time sometimes cures more human ills than common sense, a truce often serves a purpose for all parties. It allows an interval in which the situation may change.

That may be the great gift of a

Eisenhower administration tapped him for his present post, told McCarthy he would "certainly not" object to the presence in a college library of books by Communist authors. He said all the books cited by McCarthy are undoubtedly in the Harvard library.

He said he would have preferred if McCarthy had not undertaken a public purge of the overseas libraries, but had taken his complaint to government officials and had the books removed without publicity.

McCarthy replied that U. S. taxpayers are paying for the information program and are entitled to know that the libraries circulated books by Communists and fellow travelers. Conant said he would agree the libraries should not circulate a book by "a member of the Communist party under orders to further the Communist conspiracy."

Secretary of State Dulles, at a news conference yesterday, praised Eisenhower's speech and said officials of his department should use a little more common sense in weeding out books.

He said he did not know how many books had been removed from the shelves, but that only 11 had literally been burned at Singapore and Sydney, Australia. Orders have gone out, Dulles said, not to destroy books but merely to take them out of circulation.

Says De Gasperi Can Still Push Through Policies

ROME (AP)—The Italian magazine Foreign Affairs (Estero), which often reflects the views of Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Foreign Ministry, says the West is unduly and unnecessarily upset over the slimness of the parliamentary majority the government bloc won in last week's elections.

The magazine said the NATO-minded Premier won a working majority in both Senate (13 votes) and Chamber of Deputies (16 seats) equal to that of the governments in Germany and Britain. This, the editorial asserted, would permit De Gasperi to carry on his pro-Western, pro-European policies.

"Our American friends," the article continued, "lament the fact that in spite of American aid the Italian Communists increased their vote. The Americans ought to consider what might have happened if there had been no aid."

Indications of trouble for the Premier continued, however. To a pointed suggestion from moderate Socialist leader Giuseppe Saragat that De Gasperi should make peace with Pietro Nenni's extreme left Socialists, the secretary of the Premier's own Christian Democratic party said flatly yesterday there was "no possibility of collaboration with Nenni, who is firmly with the Communists."

There was no indication just how far Saragat would go to press his idea of reunion with the pro-Red Socialists. Should he pull the moderate leftists' 19 seats in the Chamber of Deputies out of the government coalition's total of 303 votes, it would destroy De Gasperi's 16-vote majority.

One Rome newspaper speculated that Saragat might be giving public notice he intends to use his faction as such a balance of power in the Chamber.

Uses Friend's Flat Footsies To Duck Draft

CHICAGO (AP)—One man's flat feet almost kept two men out of the Army.

James Parsons, an assistant U. S. district attorney, said yesterday two youths tried this stunt and nearly succeeded.

Peter P. Ropinski, Jr., 22, of Chicago, and Robert F. Wyzykowski, 21, of suburban Melrose Park, were seized yesterday by FBI agents. Wyzykowski was charged with draft evasion and Ropinski was accused of aiding and abetting him.

Parsons gave this account: Wyzykowski received his induction notice Jan. 17. Knowing that Ropinski was classified 4-F for his flat feet, Wyzykowski suggested the other youth act as his substitute during a pre-induction physical examination.

Ropinski agreed. Everything went according to plan. Ropinski, alias Wyzykowski, was classified 4-F.

Several days later, however, a check of records the induction center listed Wyzykowski's height as 5 feet 10 inches. His draft board said he was 6 feet 4 inches tall.

At that point, the FBI took over. The two youths appeared before U. S. Commissioner C. S. Bentley Pike. He continued the case to July 21 and set their bond at $1,500 each.

Smut Infection Is At High Peak Of Recent Years

Smut infection in barley has been more serious this spring than in any recent year claims Ross Fleetwood, Extension Field Crops Specialist. Now is a good time for barley growers to consider what they can do to keep down infections in the future.

There are three main types of smut that affect barley. Loose smut infects the flower and is carried over in the grain thereby infecting the plant. Black or semi-loose smut is similar to loose smut in that it blackens the head. However, it differs from loose smut in the way it infects the plant. The infection is carried on the outside rather than the inside of the kernel. The third type of infection covered smut, doesn't destroy the entire head. Instead, the spores of the smut are carried inside the kernel husks and are released when the grain is combined or thrashed. The spores then attach themselves to the outside of the barley kernels.

Fortunately, semi-loose or black smut and covered smut can be controlled with seed treatment. But the real loose smut cannot be controlled with ordinary treatment because the spores are on the inside of the kernel.

With the development of B-400 barley, we have a variety that is fairly resistant to loose smut. It is susceptible to both black and covered smut but since these can be controlled by seed treatment, it offers us a variety that can withstand all three types of smut. This is not possible with any other barley variety.

Since smut infections are rather heavy this year, it will be even more important than usual to treat seed to be planted this fall with Ceresan or other seed treatments. Complete information on treating seed can be obtained from the county extension office.

New Circular Is Out On Grass Silage Crops

With the present weather conditions many folks may be wanting to use oats for grass silage. A new circular, No. 639 and dated April, 1953, is available at the County Extension Office.

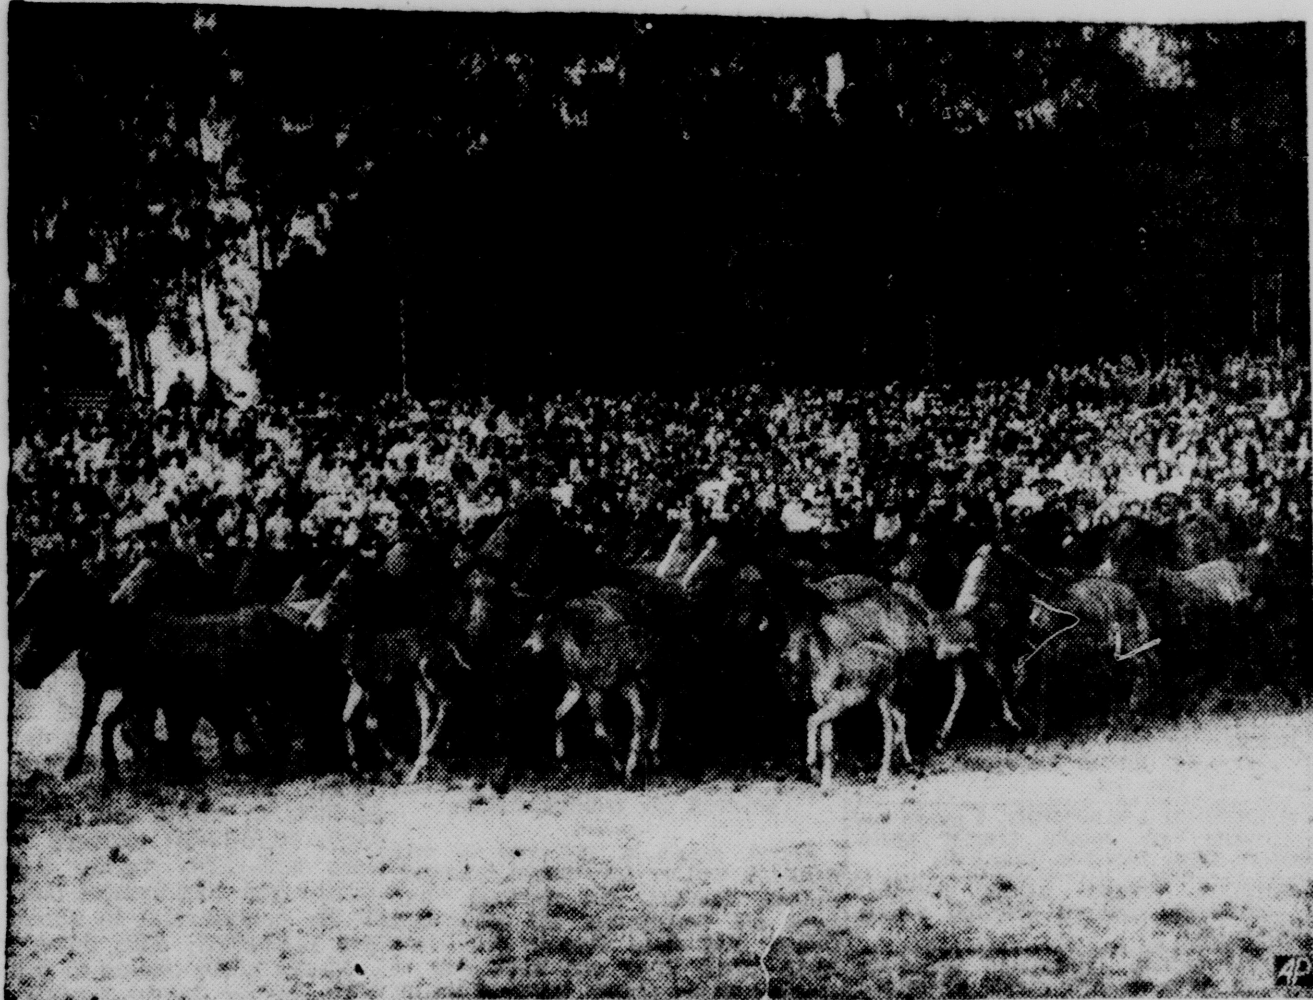

Topics discussed in the circular include: (1) crops for grass silage, (2) time of cutting, (3) moisture content of crop, (4) preservatives

Experts Think They'll Soon Know How to Spot Tornadoes Early

Editor's Note: Man knows what death and devastation tornadoes can deal. He knows the fantastic freakish things they do. He knows A-bombs don't cause them—that a tornado's energy outstrips that of many A-bombs. But he doesn't know what sets up a tornadic condition, or what pulls the trigger that sets one off. He's trying to find out, and he's optimistic. AP reporters dug deep to provide this up-to-the-minute story. It is the combined work of science writer Frank Carey in Washington, Clarence Johnson in Kansas City and Saul Feldman in Oklahoma City.

By The Associated Press
Last month they heard the roar, clawed the earth in the screaming winds and counted their dead in Texas.

This month the same elemental fury struck again, like a huge giant gone mad, and they counted their dead in Michigan and Ohio and Massachusetts.

Where will the next tornadoes hit? Mighty as he is with his atom bomb, puny as he is in the face of nature's maniacal winds, can man do nothing about reducing the tragedy of tornadoes?

Weather experts in Washington and the "Tornado Belt" of the Midwest were optimistic. They say that improving networks of warning systems, set up in recent years to alert areas in the path of an onrushing twister, have undoubtedly saved lives and damage, and may be expected to save more.

The experts realize their optimism is ironic in a year which may set a record for sudden tragedy out of the skies. In the first five months of this year, the U. S. Weather Bureau in Washington reports, the United States was hit by 217 twisters—an unofficial, unverified count. The first half of June raised the total to well over 250.

For grass silage including molasses, ground grain, sulphur dioxide, dried whey, and phosphoric acid, (5) harvesting and handling grass silage, (6) silos for grass silage, and (7) feeding grass silage.

Under feeding grass silage entire paragraphs have been devoted to: (1) dairy cattle, (2) beef cattle, (3) sheep, and (4) to hogs. With brood sows particularly they suggest using legume silage to replace legume hay in the ration.

The highest previous count for a five-month period was 195 in 1933. The worst death toll caused by tornadoes was 794 in 1925. In an average year, twisters kill 227 Americans. This year isn't half over yet but the 1953 death toll already has more than doubled the annual average.

In most bad years, tornado damage doesn't run much over 40 million dollars. But this year, twisters already have wrought four times as much destruction.

Why?

"Every month so far this year, we've been running way above average on tornadoes," says Ivan Tannehill, chief of the U. S. Weather Bureau's Division of Reporting and Forecasting. "It's possibly due partly to the fact that we had a lot of warm, moist air brought over the country during the winter and early spring—followed by an unusually cool April and May."

Can recent atomic explosions be blamed? No, say the experts. There is no possible connection between manmade blasts and weather. An A-bomb has only a small fraction of the energy released in an ordinary storm, they insist.

But why the optimism?

The chief problem in saving lives and property is getting adequate advance warnings from atmospheric conditions on where the swirling funnels of wind may strike. The problem within the problem is pinpointing the threatened area.

Generally, weathermen receiving reports from all sections of the country, especially the wide-open Midwest, can't pinpoint advance warnings for an area less than 10,000 square miles. That's too big, being equal to the size of New Hampshire or Maryland. The average tornado rips out a path 200 to 400 feet wide, 10 to 40 miles long.

But progress is made at places like the Severe Storm Center Warning Center at Tinker Air Force Base near Oklahoma City. In some cases there, tornado warnings have been issued accurately for a 2,500-square-mile area. That, at least, is reducing it to county size. But weather conditions have to be just right.

Optimistic but cautious, Lt. Col.

risers in air pressure at the ground may be the actual "trigger" which touches off a tornado when atmospheric conditions are otherwise ripe.

These "pressure pumps," Tepper says, can be noted on sensitive instruments called microbarographs. This conceivably could provide advance warning of, and a possible way of predicting the path of, and embryonic tornado. The Weather Bureau already has set up a network of such detecting stations in the Midwest but Tepper says many more observations and more stations will be needed before the method can be fully applied.

Other researchers contend existing thunderstorms may provide the trigger. Still others insist that thunderstorms in a company twisters but don't necessarily start them.

Man, unfortunately, knows much less about the birth of a tornado than about what the full-grown, terrifying adult looks like, sounds like and does.

Two basic atmospheric conditions seem to be essential for the breeding of a twister—a "tongue" of moist, warm air coming up from the tropics and a body of dry, cool air moving at more or less right angles to the moist air, and "overriding" it at the point of intersection.

The result is a colossal nightmare of sound and fury.

Moist air is drawn up violently into the atmosphere like a coiled bedspring snapping loose. As the moisture condenses the higher it goes, the condensation becomes visible as a funnel-like cloud. It also has been known to resemble an elephant's waving trunk, a dangling rope or the zig-zagging tail of a kite.

It is preceded by a tremendous roar—like "the roar of a train," an eyewitness said in Flint, Mich.

Two others have said, "The awe-some noise also has been likened to the buzzing of a million bees, the blast of a thousand cannons, the screech of a dozen factories filled with buzzsaws."

rim rip with speeds as high as 300 to 500 miles an hour. The speed of the upsurging winds within the column has never been clocked.

Strong buildings made of brick and cement and even steel are torn apart and scattered. It happened in Flint. It happened in Worcester, Mass., and Waco, Tex.

The screaming winds uproot big trees, stripping off the bark like banana peels. Humans and animals and vehicles are whirled through the air and dashed to earth. In Flint, huge trailer trucks were tossed off highways like broken toys.

Within the column of swirling air, there is a partial vacuum. Thus, as the tornado roars over, it may cause houses literally to explode because the air pressure within the buildings is so much greater than that in the twister. This same phenomenon can strip hens of their feathers.

Tornadoes advance with a ground speed ranging from 5 to 140 miles an hour, although most average between 40 and 50. Usually, they move in a more or less straight path—southwest to northeast—but have been known to execute sudden U-turns, even complete circles.

The United States has more tornadoes, and more violent ones, than any other country in the world. But no area of the world has proven immune. They've even had tornadoes in Russia, where they call them "sacches" but don't claim to have invented same.

Generally, however, Europe is better protected by the east-west Alps, Asia by the Himalayas.

But here, in this country, the relatively flat region lying east of the Rocky Mountains leaves a big door open wide for the moist tropical air coming up from the South. That's why, over the years, the Midwest and South have been hit so hard. But no one state can claim to have missed tornadoes completely.

KITCHEN EQUIPMENT UNLIMITED — Squatting amid the amazing collection of pots and pans that nearly filled a room in an old house, David Whitman, Kansas City, Kan., antique dealer, inspects an antique lamp. Among the kitchenware were stacks of pie and cake tins, many never used. Hidden under a sewing machine, he found a small wooden box. It contained $19,000 in cash. Whitman and his partner had bid $1000 for the house's contents. They turned the $19,000 over to the bank.

Singapore Restricts Immigrants

SINGAPORE — New immigration regulations will bar entry into Singapore to all persons wanting to enter the colony for the purpose of seeking employment.

Controller of Immigration J. L. J. Haxworth said "The colony can no longer afford the flow of fresh immigrants." He explained there were no restrictions in the past because vast quantities of labour were required to develop the country. The ever-increasing local-born population now can be depended upon to supply all labour requirements.

Singapore now has a population of 1,000,000. Experts estimate this will be doubled by 1970.
